

IN A GROVE - RYŪNOSUKE AKUTAGAWA 1.1

A visual lesson summary, curated and designed by premjith mathew

A Japanese short story about the murder of a Samurai named Kanazawa Takehiro.
The story is told through different points of view or perspectives.

Woodcutter

He found the body of the samurai in the grove, alongside a comb and some pieces of rope.

Buddhist Priest

He saw Takehiro traveling with a woman on the road earlier in the day.

Policeman

He reports capturing a notorious bandit named Tajōmaru, who was found with a horse and weapons.

Old Woman

She is the mother of the woman, Masago, and confirms the identities of the victim and the bandit.

Tajōmaru

He confesses to killing Takehiro after raping Masago. He claims Masago wanted to leave with him and that Takehiro died honourably in a duel.

Masago

She confesses to killing her husband herself, saying she felt ashamed after being violated and begged Takehiro to kill her. When he responded with coldness, she lost control and killed him.

Takehiro

Speaking through a medium, Takehiro claims he killed himself. After Tajōmaru's attack, Masago asked both men to decide her fate, but when Tajōmaru abandoned her, she ran away. In despair, Takehiro took his own life with Masago's dagger.

1.2 - The Story of My Experiments with Truth

Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi

visual lesson summary curated and designed by premjith mathew

Gandhi's Father - Karamchand Gandhi

Gandhi describes his father as a truthful, brave, and generous person. He was also shot tempered. He was loyal to the state. He didn't have any ambition to accumulate riches and he didn't leave behind huge amounts of money or property. He was an uneducated man, but he was experienced and highly practical. He was not that religious, but he had a religious culture which included the habit of visiting temples and reading the Gita.

Gandhi's Mother - Putlibai Gandhi

Gandhi's mother was a highly spiritual woman. She used to eat meals only after completing her daily prayers. Every day she used to visit the temple. Even when she was sick and unwell, she used to strictly follow the fasting vows. She used to live on one meal a day. She was a woman with 'a strong common sense'. She was well informed about the happenings around her, and she used to have lively discussion with her friends.

School Days

Gandhi was a mediocre student at school. He never told a lie or cheated during exams. He used to be shy and was always alone. He used to come to school on time and used to go home after school. One day his teacher encouraged him to copy the spelling of a word from the neighbour's slate, but he didn't copy. Gandhi used to read books and one book was a play about Shravana's devotion to his blind parents and the other one was story of Raja Harishchandra. He enjoyed reading the story of Shravana and Raja Harishchandra and they were his role models.

Gandhi's Marriage

The third chapter is titled as 'Child Marriage.' Based on the Hindu custom and culture, Gandhi got married at the age of 13. Many days were spent in making clothes and ornaments and in preparing budget for dinners for the upcoming wedding. At the age of 13, Gandhi saw his wife as 'a strange girl to play with'. Gandhi describes his marriage with his wife as 'two innocent children unwittingly hurled themselves into the ocean of life'. They gradually began to know each other and speak freely together.

Report on "Idea Hackathon," a brainstorming event
04.03.2024

The BCOM ISM department and the Institute of Innovation Council DRBCCC Hindu College Institute collaborated to host an "IDEA HACKATHON," a brainstorming event that provides a platform for young minds to showcase their talent and generate out-of-the-box open innovation ideas.

The event was planned for final-year students of BCOM ISM. It was team participation. Students have come up with innovative/unique ideas that are beneficial in solving problems related to society.

The objective of the event was to make students think beyond the curriculum and generate innovative and creative solutions to issues related to the society. This event is a melting pot for pioneering minds and imaginative thinkers, a rendezvous where ideas take flight and become reality.

The event provides a platform for learners to showcase their innovative startup ideas. Participants can pitch, refine, and develop their ideas within a dynamic and supportive community.

The theme of the event was social entrepreneurship. Students come up with innovative or unique ideas that are beneficial to society. Moreover, they discuss and explain social problems that need recognition and do not have solutions currently, along with their proposed solutions.

They presented their creative and innovative ideas through poster presentations. This competition challenges students to dare to think differently. The event was organized under the profound guidance of our head of department, Dr. Premila Koppalakrishnan. The session helped the students enhance their ability to think, develop, and present their ideas. Such platforms provide students with an avenue to apply knowledge of management, financial, and marketing theories to their ideas.

Learning Objectives:

The event promotes innovation culture and highlights the importance of creativity and out-of-the-box thinking.

1. Understanding the concept of Social entrepreneurship
2. Developing a Conceptual Model to the existing problem in the society
3. Developing the Actual Model of the start up
4. Defining an adequate solution to the social problem.

Outcome:

The event provides a platform for inspiration and encourages students to brainstorm and present their innovative ideas. This not only enhances their problem-solving skills but also fosters an entrepreneurial mindset and innovation.

2.3.11 Teaching team

2.3.1. Student centric methods, such as experiential learning, participative learning and problem solving methodologies are used for enhancing learning experiences

Teaching-learning methods adopted by the faculty members include Lecture Method, Interactive Method, Project-based Learning, Computer-assisted Learning, Experiential Learning, etc. The Teaching-learning activities are made effective through illustration and special lectures. Lessons are taught through PowerPoint presentations to make learning interesting besides oral presenting methods.

Lecture method: This conventional method is commonly adopted by all teachers. This method facilitates the teacher to interpret, explain and revise the content of a text-only for better understanding of the subject by the learners.

Interactive method: The faculty members make learning interactive with students by motivating student participation in group discussion, role-play, subject quiz, news analysis, discussion, and questions and answers on current affairs.

The department Implements student-centric methods of enhancing the lifelong learning skills of students. Faculty members make efforts in making the learning activity more interactive by adopting student-centric methods.

1. Experiential Learning: Department conducts add-on programs to support students in their experiential learning. The department communicates the following experiential learning practices to improve creativity and cognitive levels of the students –
 - Laboratory Sessions are conducted with content beyond syllabus experiments.
 - Industrial Visits to engage them in experiential learning while visiting the organization.
2. Participatory Learning: In this type of learning, students participate in different activities such as seminars, group discussions, wallpapers and skill-based add-on courses. Students are encouraged to participate in activities where they can use their specialized technical or management skills.
 - Regular Quizzes- Quizzes are organized for student participation at intra or inter-department levels.
 - Seminar Presentation – Students develop technical skills while presenting papers in seminars.
3. Problem-solving methods: Department encourages students to acquire and develop problem solving skills. For this, the department organizes expert lectures on different topics, participate in different technical tests and other competitions.
 - Regular assignments based on problems
 - Regular Quizzes
 - Class presentations

In addition to the traditional teaching-learning methods, the institute is providing innovative student-centric methods such as Workshops, Seminars, Video, Demonstration, Activity-based learning, Flipped Classroom, Guest lecture, Peer learning groups, MOOCs, Google Classroom, PPT, Mind map, Public Speaking to encourage Participative, Problem-solving and Experiential learning.

GE8151- PROBLEM SOLVING AND PYTHON PROGRAMMING – Question Bank

UNIT I

PART-A

PROBLEM SOLVING AND PYTHON PROGRAMMING

1. Define Algorithm

Algorithm : It is a sequence of instructions designed in such a way that if the instructions are executed in the specified sequence, the desired results will be obtained. The instructions in an algorithm should not be repeated infinitely. The algorithm should be written in sequence.

2. What are the properties of algorithm?

- It is written in simple English.
- Each step of an algorithm is unique and should be self explanatory. An algorithm must have at least one input.
- An algorithm must have at least one
- output. An algorithm has finite number of steps.

3. What are the building block of algorithm?

The three building block of algorithm are :

- Sequence
- Selection
- Iteration

4. What is meant by selection, iteration and sequence control structures?

Sequence:

A sequence is one of the basic logic structures in computer programming. In a sequence structure, an action, or event, leads to the next ordered action in a predetermined order.

Selection:

A selection (also called a decision) is also one of the basic logic structures in computer programming. In a selection structure, a question is asked, and depending on the answer, the program takes one of two courses of action, after which the program moves on to the next event.

Selection: A selection (also called a decision) is also one of the basic logic structures in computer programming. In a selection structure, a question is asked, and depending on the answer, the program takes one of two courses of action, after which the program moves on to the next event.

5. Define Flowchart

It is a pictorial representation of an algorithm. The flowchart uses different shape symbols to denote the different appropriate instructions and these instructions can be written within the boxes using clear statements.

6. Write the Characteristics of Pseudo code.

Named variables represent data and identifiers denote higher level functions.

Composed of a sequence of statements or steps.

- Statements are often numbered sequentially.
- Operational (Imperative) statements include assignment, input, and output. Control structures provide iterative and conditional execution.
- Indentations used for grouping

8. What is need for flowchart symbol?

The need for flowchart symbols because each symbols of different shapes denotes different types of instructions. The program logic through flowcharts is made easier through the use of symbol that has standardized planning.

9. Write some rules for drawing a flowchart.

10. What are the advantages of using a flowchart

- Communication
- Effective
- Proper
- Documentation
- Efficient Coding
- Proper
- Debugging
- Efficient Program Maintenance

11. Write any two disadvantages of flowchart ?

- It is not visual
- We do not get a picture of the design.

12. What is Pseudo code?

—Pseudo means imitation of false and —code refers to the instruction written in a programming language. Pseudo code is programming analysis tool that is used for planning program logic.

13. Write the Characteristics of Pseudocode.

- Named variables represent data and identifiers denote higher level functions.
- Composed of a sequence of statements or steps.
- Statements are often numbered sequentially.
- Operational (Imperative) statements include assignment, input, and output.
- Control structures provide iterative and conditional execution.

- Indentations used for grouping blocks of statement

14. What are the rules for writing pseudo code?

- Write one statement per line. Capitalize initial keywords.
- Indent to show hierarchy.
- End multiline structure.
- Keep statements language independent.

15. Write any two advantages of pseudo code.

It can be done easily in any word processor.

- It can be written easily.
- It can be easily modified as compared to flowchart.

16. Write any two disadvantages of flowchart?

- It is not visual
- We do not get a picture of the design.

17. Differentiate Algorithm and Pseudo code

| S.No | Algorithm | Pseudo code |
|------|--|--|
| 1. | It is a well-defined procedure that allows a computer to solve a problem. | It is a simple way of writing programming code in English. |
| 2. | Algorithms can be described in various ways, from pure mathematical formulas to complex graphs | Pseudo code describes how you would implement an algorithm without getting into syntactical details. |

18. What is the difference between algorithm and flowchart

| S.No | Algorithm | Flow Chart |
|------|--|--|
| 1. | Step by Step formation | Box by box formation |
| 2. | Mostly run to complete or manage a program implementation. | Can be used in general terms to solve any problem related to an individual or a group. |
| 3. | More detailed but difficult to understand | Lessdetailed but easyto understand by everyone. |

UNIT-II

PART A

DATA, EXPRESSIONS AND STATEMENTS

1. Define python

Python is an object-oriented, high level language, interpreted, dynamic and multipurpose programming language.

2. Give the features of python.

- Easy to Use:
- Expressive Language
- Interpreted Language
- Cross-platform language
- Free and Open Source
- Object-Oriented language
- Extensible

3. What is python interpreter?

The engine that translates and runs Python is called the Python Interpreter: There are two ways to use it: immediate mode and script mode. The >>> is called the Python prompt. The interpreter uses the prompt to indicate that it is ready for instructions.

4. What is the difference between intermediate mode and script mode?

- In immediate mode, you type Python expressions into the Python Interpreter window, and the interpreter immediately shows the result.
- Alternatively, you can write a program in a file and use the interpreter to execute the contents of the file. Such a file is called a script. Scripts have the advantage that they can be saved to disk, printed, and so on.

4. What is meant by value in python?

A value is one of the fundamental things—like a letter or a number—that a program manipulates.

5. List the standard data types in python.

Python has five standard data Types:

- Numbers
- Strings
- List,
- Tuples
- Dictionary
